

Word families

Across

5. the act, process, or result of explaining.
9. tending to make severe judgments or to find fault.
10. to communicate knowledge to; tell.
11. to exchange thoughts, ideas, or information.
12. to create mental images of (things not present to the senses).
13. providing information, or adding to one's knowledge or understanding.
14. to be alive; live.
17. to systematically examine or search into.

Down

1. disposed or tending to communicate readily and well.
2. the act of communicating or receiving knowledge.
3. the transferring of messages or exchanging of information or ideas.
4. the capacity of the mind to create, as by forming images of what does not literally exist.
5. to make a clarification or give an explanation.
6. something that recommends, such as a favorable letter or verbal praise.
7. the act of making judgments or criticizing.
8. to represent as being worthy of regard or confidence; give endorsement of.
12. created by the imagination.
14. the totality of living and created things; everything that has being.
15. the act of investigating or condition of being investigated.
16. to judge something or someone in regard to flaws and strengths.