GWYNNIE'S COLDPLAY COMFORT

THEY'VE been denying it for weeks. But here is the proof that Gwyneth Paltrow and Coldplay singer Chris Martin are an item.

And there we were thinking the 30-year-old Hollywood actress had sworn off British men after she declared several months ago that they were too timid to ask her out.

But now Chris, 25, has admitted they have been seeing each other for two whole days!

We revealed last month how he had given the Shakespeare In Love star tickets to his Wembley concert. Then she flew to Dublin two weeks ago to watch him perform again.

GAME'S UP: Chris has admitted he is seeing Gwyneth

When we asked Chris at the Q Magazine Music Awards about his budding romance with the Oscar-winning star he replied: "Gwyneth who?"

The scarlet-faced signer then blurted out: "Singers and actors are regular people too you know."

But at the weekend, the game was finally up. The lovebirds managed to sneak into Chris's Hampstead flat late on Saturday night - but their exit was a totally different matter.

Bounding out of the door three hours later for a trip to the pub, a furious Chris yelled at the photographer: "Give me that film! In fact, give me the camera. We have only been going out for two days. Can't you just leave us alone? We are only normal people."

We'll take that as a confirmation, then.

Naturally, we've been first with the facts all the way through their liaison.

Apart from recent revelations about Gwynnie's groupie antics, we also told you how Chris bought her a signed copy of David Gray's new album last week.
